

Three types of questions

1. Literal or here questions

The answer is written in the text. The answer often uses the same words as the question. The answer is easy to find.

2. Inferential or hidden questions

The answer is hidden in the text. The answer is not stated, but by joining two or more pieces of information, and noticing the hints, you can work it out.

3. Creative or head questions

The answer is your opinion, thoughts, feelings and ideas. The answer is not written in the text, it comes from your head but, the answer does need to relate to the authors ideas and themes.
